I am pleased to announce that Smart Sport International is officially a member of the International network of Certified McKenzie Clinics. What does this mean? To put it in perspective, SSI is now one of 67 clinics in the world that are a part of this network. Along with this, there are approximately 300 practitioners worldwide that attained the highest level of training in the McKenzie Method.

This method of musculoskeletal assessment and treatment is applicable to not only back and neck pain - the same principles are utilized for all the other joints as well!

Call us to find out more about the McKenzie Method and how it can help assist you in your injury recovery.
